

---

Code enforcement officer arrested for marijuana says deputies disregarded medical cards

Posted by Chris Thompson - 2008/10/16 16:19

---

This thread discusses the Content article: Code enforcement officer arrested for marijuana says deputies disregarded medical cards

The fact is that another fine member of our community has been ripped off by Law Enforcement Officers, because he uses a plant as medicine. This isn't a time for mud-slinging, it's a time to provide support for our neighbor and friend.

Sure the quantity seems like a lot, but having observed Cannabis users for years it seems apparent that they find relief only by continual, and constant use of the herb. Cannabis, the herb, has been proven to NOT have any harmful side effects, and there is no evidence anywhere of a single person ever dying from an overdose of cannabis.

However, the list of benefits from using cannabis as medicine is long, and verified by many scientific and medical authorities. Many thousands of lives have been helped by using cannabis, lives perhaps saved by not using harsh chemicals promoted by the pharmaceutical industry.

The real crime is for our government to impose draconian laws inconsistently, resulting in shattered lives, people in jails, and families broken up.

Be strong Larry, and don't let the bastards get you down!!!

~Chris Thompson
Founding Editor, International Cannagraphic Magazine

Post edited by: Chris Thompson, at: 2008/10/16 19:19

---

Re:Code enforcement officer arrested for marijuana says deputies disregarded medical cards

Posted by kd006 - 2008/10/18 00:29

---

"having observed Cannabis users for years it seems apparent that they find relief only by continual, and constant use of the herb"

100% right Chris, of course alcoholics only find relief with constant and continued use of their drug of choice.

:evil:

---

Re:Code enforcement officer arrested for marijuana says deputies disregarded medical cards

Posted by crazy beautiful mommy - 2008/12/19 16:18

---

Medical pot isnt a crime, its medicine.

---