

Early Saturday crash injures two

Contributed by Elizabeth Larson
Saturday, 20 October 2007

COBB – A collision between two cars early Saturday morning resulted in occupants of both cars being sent to the hospital.

The California Highway Patrol incident logs reported that a vehicle hit a deer on Highway 175 in Cobb at Loch Lomond at 1:38 a.m.

That vehicle then collided with a second vehicle, blocking the roadway, the CHP reported. One of the vehicles flipped over, trapping a person inside.

One of the vehicles involved was reported to be a Jeep, according to the CHP logs.

CHP and Cal Fire responded to the scene, where one person was reported to have major injuries and another moderate injuries.

The victim with major injuries was transported by REACH helicopter to Sutter Lakeside Hospital at 2:24 a.m. The CHP did not immediately report where the second crash victim was transported.

Both parties were subject to blood draws, commonly done following serious crashes to look for signs of alcohol or drugs in the system.

No further information about the incident or the victims was available early Saturday.

E-mail Elizabeth Larson at elaron@lakeconews.com.

{mos_sb_discuss:2}